If during your travel within or to/from India, there is a flight cancellation or delay or denied boarding on a flight for which you hold a valid and confirmed reservation, you are entitled to certain rights in accordance with the Civil Aviation Requirements, Section 3 – Air Transport, Series ‘M’, Part IV, Issue 1, dated 6th August, 2010, revisions effective 1st August, 2016, passed by the Director General of Civil Aviation. For your ready reference, we give below a summary of these rights. Full text of this CAR is available on <http://dgca.nic.in/rules/car-ind.htm>

[I] Denied Boarding

Many a time, passengers who hold a confirmed & valid booking, do not or are unable to report (i.e. ‘No Show’) for travel before the time limit specified by the airline. In such cases, an airline is allowed to levy appropriate ‘No Show’ penalty under Rule 135 of the Aircraft Rules, 1937 and the same will be deducted from the fare paid by the passenger.

To reduce the possibility of flight departing with unoccupied or empty seats, the airlines overbook flights to a limited extent. In such overbooking cases, an airline may have more passengers reporting for a particular flight than the seats available on such flight and as such, may need to deny the boarding to some of the passengers.

In the above event, before denying the boarding, Cathay Pacific Airways and Cathay Dragon would endeavor to first ask volunteers to give up their seats so as to make such seats available for other booked passengers to travel on the flight. In return, Cathay Pacific Airways & Cathay Dragon, at its own discretion, would offer to the volunteer such benefits / facilities which, it may wish to offer.

In case you are denied boarding involuntarily on a flight for which you hold a confirmed reservation, you are entitled to the following monetary compensation:
